Foreword

In days of old, sand paintings were used as a method of retaining everyday events and the special moments that the Indians wished to remember. The young braves and maidens made these paintings for the whole tribe to see. So too, the Tamarack vividly brings to mind the events of everyday school life, the humorous moments, and the very special occasions that are a part of every North Central student's experience.
As the paintings themselves are symbolic, so too are the colors. Red is the symbol for sunshine and black signifies the north.
Thus the chosen colors of North Central,
Red and Black, typify the North Central Indian.

Mr. George Truedson, retiring custodian, performs his janitorial duties as he has done for the past 29 years.

Honor lies in honest toil

—Grover Cleveland

In the days of sand-painting by the Indians, there was always one brave who kept the sand-painting materials in order for the artists. So at North Central, Mr. George Truedson, 1963 retiring custodian, kept materials in perfect order for its students.

Mr. Truedson, born in Sprague, Wash., worked until he was 25 years old on his father's farm. Later he served during World War I in the United States Army for three years in Hawaii. Returning to Washington, after receiving an honorable discharge, Mr. Truedson married.

In August of 1934, he started janitorial work at North Central and for the past 29 years he has seen many students graduate.

The graduating class of 1963 sincerely dedicates this 1963 Tamarack to you, Mr. Truedson, and we wish you continued success and happiness.

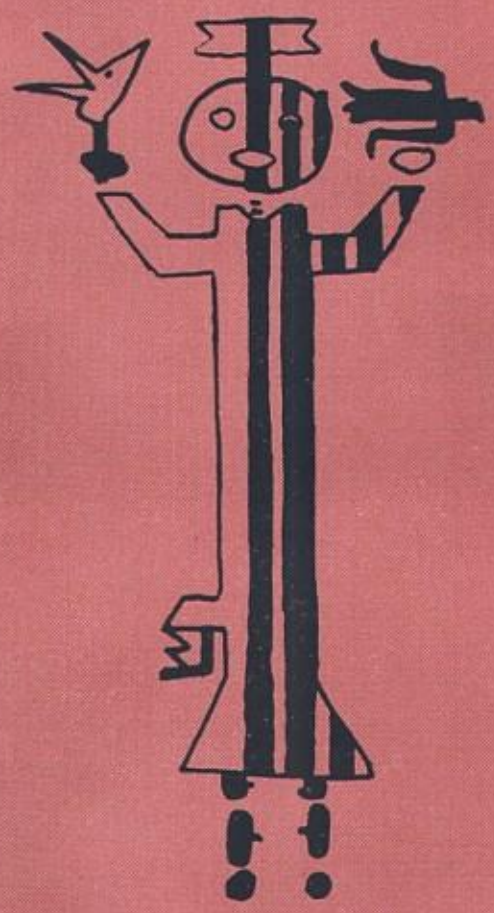
ADMINISTRATION

In the days of long ago young braves and maidens formed the pattern of the sandpainting under the watchful eye of the shaman. So, too, today our future lives are planned and formed with the help and assistance of our teachers.



ADMINISTRATION

William C. Sorenson, Superintendent of Schools for District 81

Sorenson Makes Decisions; Board Has Legislative Duties

Mr. William C. Sorenson, Superintendent of Schools for District 81, is chief executive officer of the Board of Education. He is responsible for carrying out all policy-making decisions of the board. He is responsible for the education of all students in elementary and secondary schools in the district.

Mr. Sorenson is also responsible for plans of improvement, maintenance, or expansion of buildings and site facilities. He reports various ideas which can be used in our school system from meeting with other school officials.

In May Mr. Sorenson must submit a preliminary budget for the ensuing year which is adopted by the board in its final state in October and at the end of each school year he must make a financial and statistical report which is submitted to the School Board.

The School Board of District 81 establishes policies, adopts, and provides for enforcement of rules, determines how the school district is run and in general has the legislative duties.

The Board must also provide textbooks and other supplies necessary for the proper functioning of the schools.

Freedom Places Responsibility Upon the Individual

Some persons in this great land of ours, yes—and in this school of ours, are not very aware of the great reponsibility that FREEDOM places upon the individual. If one considers what freedom really is, it becomes obvious that freedom means only that a person is free to do what he ought to do. He is also free to pay the penalty for wrong choices!

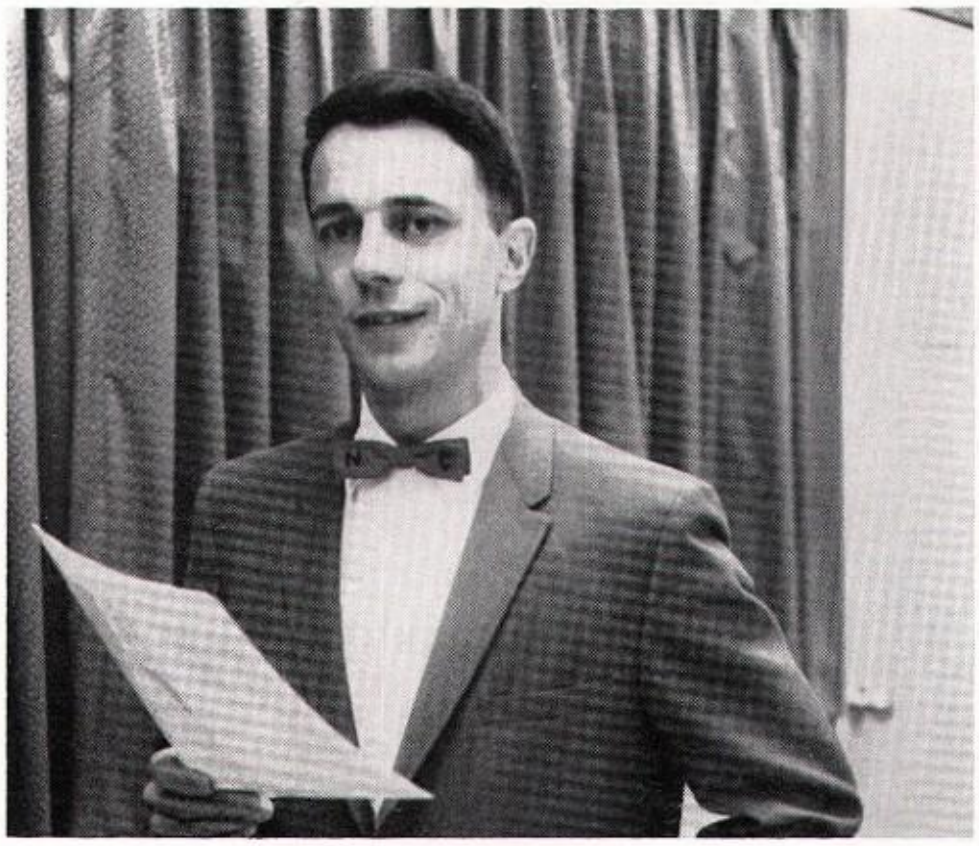
As we come to the end of another year it is good to think back on the past—and yet to look ahead to the future. First, may I thank you for the cooperation you have given the school this year. The courteous way you treat your friends, your teachers, and visitors to our building; your loyalty to your school; your participation in the activities of the school—these are the things that are REALLY important to you and to communities in which you will reside! We should never forget that the citizens of Spokane, through tax sources, provide educational opportunities for us that are unknown to most of the world. Where else does freedom abound? Where else does the individual have such free choice in determining his own future? "Where, oh where, but in America?"

Take time at the end of this year to say a word of appreciation—to parents, to friends, to teachers, to your community, to all who have given you assistance in developing yourself toward a worthwhile future.

To those who will not be returning to North Central next year we give our kindest regards and send our best wishes, especially to GRADUATES who will be finding their way into new experiences in life. May you retain fond memories of your years at North Central, and may that which you have learned assist you in attaining those positive goals you have established.

John P. Rodkey

Being a busy man, John P. Rodkey, Principal, scarcely takes time for photograph.



Vice-Principal E. Edward Gill

Vice-Principal E. Edward Gill is an executive of the school. In the absence of the principal he serves as administrative head. The smooth and efficient operation of the school is credited to Mr. Gill.

Scheduling classes, assisting staff members in matters of student control, issuing work permits and early dismissals are among his duties. Mr. Gill also assists the principal in the supervision of school functions, such as convocations, athletic events and evening programs. He is in charge of pupil accounting and authorizes the dropping of students from school.

Girls' Dean Patricia Butterfield

Helping the girls of North Central with their social and emotional problems, as well as their academic problems, is the duty of Butterfield, dean of girls.

Throughout the school year she has helped many girls obtain after-school and summer jobs. She is anxious for girls to come to her for any help that they may need.

Mrs. Butterfield's objective is helping the students to adjust to life around them. She is very interested in the youth of today and enjoys working with them.

Kenneth Mhyre, Dean of Boys

Counseling North Central's boys is the main duty of Kenneth C. Mhyre. Assisting the vice-principal in scheduling problems, speaking to students about academic problems, issuing transfers and early dismissals are some of his duties. Mr. Mhyre has conferences with parents and students concerning guidance and other personal problems of students. He is also in charge of discipline cases.

PTA Keeps Parents Informed of School and Student Progress

Mrs. Lorraine McNew Helps Seniors Plan Future Education

Parent-Teacher Association's main purpose is to keep the parents well informed of the progress that the school is making as well as the needs that arise during the year. It also give teachers and parents a chance to voice their opinions on matters pertaining to the school.

Mrs. Lorraine McNew, college counselor, helps guide North Central's seniors to plan their future education. She gathers information about scholarships, financial loans and other material pertaining to college, thus making future educational plans much easier for the senior student.

Janis Willett, senior, discusses her future plans with Mrs. Lorraine McNew, college counselor.

Tickets Sold at Business Office; Nurse Keeps Health Records

The efficiency of North Central's business office may be credited to the fine office staff.

The student office takes care of guidance, counseling, disciplinary problems and records student attendance.

The public office handles school business and receives visitors. Here teachers check in and out each day, collect their mail and attend to other business.

Tickets are sold through the business office and a record of all school clubs is kept there.

Students may buy school supplies in the bookroom at a reduced rate. All school books are distributed and mended through the bookroom. The school's lost-and-found department is also located here.

The school nurse keeps a health record of all students attending North Central.

Mrs. Glidden and Mrs. McGee help keep the public office running smoothly.

Mrs. Nygaard, from Public Health, gives Nancy Baum, junior, a hearing test.

Business Education Helps Build Career Foundation

Courses in business education are helpful in laying a foundation for a business career, and they also provide useful information for personal life.

There are many careers open to students of business education. Some require further training, others do not. In preparation for careers in business, two-year courses in typing, shorthand and bookkeeping are offered. Office practice and distributive education are one-year courses. Typing is open to all students; bookkeeping to sophomores, juniors and seniors; shorthand to juniors and seniors, and office practice and distributive education to seniors only.

Commercial courses are among the most immediately useful subjects offered in high school.

Films on The Humanities for Secondary Sch

English 1-6 are basic courses offered for the first three years of high school and are required of all students. In these courses emphasis is placed on spelling, vocabulary, fundamentals of correct speech and written composition, and instruction in techniques of reading and interpretation.

Seniors have a choice of literature, composition and vocabulary if they plan to attend college. English 7a and 8a are offered to those who do not plan to go to college. Vocabulary is open to juniors and seniors as an additional-credit course.

In senior literature classes films distributed by the Council for a Television Course in the Humanities for Secondary Schools were viewed. These films, new this year, gave students a background knowledge of the humanities, showing excerpts from "Our Town," from "Oedipus the King," from "Hamlet," and from the novel "Great Expectations." The books were read along with the films. The scenes from the plays were performed by the Stratford Shakespearian Festival Foundation of Canada.

In the study of "Our Town" Clifton Fadiman, author and lecturer, was narrator. The titles of the four films in this set were The Humanities: What They Are and What They Do; The Theater: One of the Humanities; Our Town and Our Universe, and Our Town and Ourselves.

"Oedipus the King" was narrated by Bernard M. W. Knox, Professor of Classics, Yale University. The Age of Sophocles, The Character of Oedipus, Man and God, and The Recovery of Oedipus were discussed in the set.

Maynard Mack, Professor of English at Yale University, narrated the study of "Hamlet." The films were The Age of Elizabeth, What Happens in Hamlet, The Poisoned Kingdom, and The Readiness Is All.

The last set studied the novel, "Great Expectations." Clifton Fadiman was the narrator. This set was received the second semester and was shown in composition classes as well as literature.

Burril Exley explains an algebra equation to Andy Jordan, junior.

Mathematics, the Universal Language Sometimes Referred to as a 'Foreign Language!'

With pencil, eraser, ruler, compass, protractor and slide rule in hand the math student sets out to conquer mathematics. The universal language, mathematics, is to some students another "foreign" language.

Most Spokanites think of Euclid as a street on the North Side, but in math class students learn that he was a father— of modern geometry.

Several special classes are offered in math. Some of the Algebra 1 and 2 classes are teaching a different approach. This new concept is known as SMSG, which stands for School Mathematics Study Group. The SMSG method was used experimentally for several years and is now a permanent part of the curriculum.

A special geometry class is offered to give students who do well in math a chance to receive a more stimulating course.

Trigonometry and math analysis is given in the senior year. A strong background in math is needed. The prerequisite is two years of algebra and one of geometry.

Math can be very useful, too. Besides discovering how long it takes to paddle upstream against a current, students in advanced algebra learn the odds of many games of chance. They also learn about interest in payments of loans and merchandise.

Students learn that two plus two is not always four when they study the many different number systems. The number system used today has only 10 digits; some numbers systems have 12, and some have only 2.

Science Education Undergoing Change; Emphasis on Student Inquiry

Aldous Huxley has said, "Understanding comes when we liberate ourselves from the old . . . and so make possible the new." This observation is especially true today, when we often find it difficult to free ourselves from "the old ways of life" or "tried and true" methods which were "good enough for me, so they are good enough for you." We are in an environment of constant change. Some investigators say that our store of scientific knowledge will probably double in the next 10 to 15 years.

It will be the responsibility of today's young people to adapt not only themselves but their society to a world recast in a mold of scientific achievements. A major key to the success of this adaptation is freedom.

At North Central students are experiencing greater freedom in science classes, freedom to think and develop ideas in an unprecedented curriculum which fosters learning through inquiry.

With the facts of science in a constant state of flux, it is imperative that we depend less upon the factual and technological aspects of science. In all our science offerings there is growing emphasis upon science as a process of inquiry. Science as inquiry means that the student becomes an active investigator instead of a passive learner. In this manner the student gains experience with processes of analysis and independent thought. These are important tools which will later enable the student to carry on his own self-educative program which must inevitably come as a result of the changes which are now being wrought.

Students Offered Vocal Groups; Art Technique and Skill Stressed

Students with the ability may join a choral ensemble or one of the instrumental groups.

Choir, Mixed Chorus and Girls' Glee are offered to interested students. Marching Band, Concert Band, Dance and Pep Bands are a few of the instrumental courses open to students.

To demonstrate their skills, concerts and convocations are held throughout the year.

Techniques and skills are emphasized in many of our high school are classes. These skills can often be used in a very practical sense when students graduate from high school. An example is lettering. Besides the practical use of our many courses, there is an increased appreciation of the world around us.

Foreign languages are becoming increasingly popular. This year a third year is offered of Latin, German, French and Spanish.

Through foreign languages, students learn about the people and customs of other lands.

Students learn vocabulary, grammar, about the country's culture and acquire writing and reading ability in these classes. In the first year the students learn the basics of the language.

Tape recordings, records and films aid in pronunciation and conversation and increase interest in the country and its people.

Social Studies Is Essential In This Troubled World

In today's troubled world, social studies curriculum is designed to prepare students to become better citizens. With knowledge of the past and present, it is hoped that the students will use this information to the betterment of themselves and America.

The Social Studies Department offers a wide selection of studies. Some of these are required; some are not.

Freshmen are required to take world geography and Washington history. Students who transfer from other states must take Northwest history in place of Washington history.

No course in history is required in the sophomore year, but students may elect to take world history. If they do so, they do not have to take contemporary world problems in their senior year.

United States history must be studied by all juniors. As electives juniors and seniors may enroll in sociology or economics, each a semester course.

With three years of social studies required for graduation, it is hoped that students will be prepared to meet the challenges of the world. The purpose of history is to learn from the past to apply to the future. The studies are intended to stimulate the interest of the students in the happenings of today and to help them find their places in life.

PE Department Cooperates With Kennedy's Physical Fitness Program

Throughout the Kennedy administration physical fitness has been greatly emphasized. North Central's Physical Education Department is cooperating with this program by offering a variety of sports and activities for the students.

Early in the school year students participated in taking physical fitness tests. These tests measured the students' agility, ability and endurance.

Students may choose from a variety of sports to obtain their required P.E. credits. Some of these sports include tennis, bowling, golf, swimming, tumbling, football, track and weight lifting.

In addition to the regular classes, the Red Feathers and Color Girls marching units, cheerleaders and majorettes add color to the games and promote school spirit throughout the student body of North Central.

After-school activities as well as classes are available for students who wish to participate in their favorite sports. In this way the physical education department is meeting the challenge of producing a more able-bodied young America, as well as impressing the student with the importance of good sportsmanship. According to Plato, physical fitness and mental fitness go hand in hand, making physical education imperative to good education.

Family Undergoing Revolutionary Change
Industrial Arts Teach Basic Skills

The family is undergoing many revolutionary changes. A rapidly increasing world population will make housing facilities more compact; an increasing life span means learning to live comfortably and happily many more years after retirement in the Space Age. Long-accepted family values are undergoing many severe tests. These changing values will undoubtedly emerge in new shapes to fit the family of tomorrow. Today's high school students are the ones who must meet this challenge. Will there be greater family unity or more and more family responsibility being assumed by the state? How well today's family values have been learned will have much effect on this grave question.

Industrial arts courses at North Central make a strong contribution toward the objectives for general education.

Everyone knows of the rapid developments in science and technology in the past few years. The industrial arts program contributes to an understanding of what these changes are and how they affect living today. Even though the primary emphasis in industrial arts is the contribution toward general education, the teaching of skills cannot be overlooked. People that possess highly technical skills are not unemployed today.

Industrial arts courses teach many basic technical skills that will help many students in future years.

Teen-agers Need Well-balanced Meals
Cafeteria Personnel Create Nourishing Lunches

Creating attractive and nourishing hot lunches at a low price is the task met by the cafeteria personnel. As growing teen-agers need well-balanced meals for good health, the menus are carefully planned. A supplement to the hot-lunch program is the a la cart line or snack bar.

The staff includes a manager, two cooks, a baker, a snack-bar manager and a salad maker. Supervising the preparation of hot lunches and dinners for other school activities is the duty of the cafeteria manager. The head cook and her assistant plan the appetizing main dishes that are served.

The salad maker creates delicious salads while the baker exhibits her skills by turning out tasty desserts and an assortment of hot rolls.

Students help the cafeteria personnel by working as cashiers, dishwasher and milk sellers.

Custodians Keep Grounds and Building Neat

Cleaning North Central's buildings, grounds and equipment and keeping it in properly functioning order is the work of the custodial staff.

The staff consists of custodian-engineer, engineer, two assistant engineers, matron and six custodians. The custodians work all year round except for a three-week vacation.

The responsibility of keeping the school clean and making necessary repairs is held by the head engineer. The assistant engineer takes care of the band and choir rooms, new gym and heating plant.

The matron keeps the girls' lavatories neat and clean while the custodians go from room to room at night and restore North Central to its original order.

The custodians can often be seen at night carrying out their tasks of pushing large containers of trash, cleaning blackboards, dusting and sweeping floors.

Homeroom Teachers Advise Graduates

As senior class adviser, Mr. John Malterner led the class of '63 through a year full of activities. Working with Mr. Malterner were the senior homeroom teachers.

The homeroom teacher has much to do with the school's efficient operation. Through him the student receives individual attention in both programming and personal problems. The homeroom teacher keeps a record of each student's progress at North Central. On these records are found not only grades and attendance, but test scores, a list of activities, a personality summary, a photograph, and parent's signatures. From this data many letters of recommendation are compiled which in years to come is often studied by potential employers. Therefore each homeroom teacher has a large responsibility in keeping these records accurate and all students are encouraged by their homeroom teachers to leave the best possible record.

Joe Bids Farewell

Dear Fellow Students and Faculty:

This is just a short note to tell you how grateful I am for everything you have done for me this year. It has been a wonderful one and surely the most interesting of my short life.

Now I can say I know American people and I have changed some of my opinions about America.

Thank you very much again.

Yours truly,
Joe Placer

Joe Placer, A.F.S. Foreign Exchange student from Valencia, Spain, takes time from a busy schedule to relax.

Senior Class Officers led the graduating class of 1963 through an exciting year filled with various activities. Early in the fall the class officers were elected. They met regularly with the class adviser, Mr. John Malterner, and senior homeroom representatives to plan the year's schedule.

In February the seniors ordered their cards and announcements through the homeroom representatives, and committees got busy working and planning various senior functions. On April 25 the all-senior corec was held.

The seniors decided to have a revue of their high school years instead of the annual p The revue, entitled "North Side Story," presented on May 10, followed by a re tion to which the parents were invited.

On the morning of Senior Dress-Up D May 28, the annual breakfast was held in Marie Antoinette Room at the Davenp Hotel.

Highlight of the year's activities was Senior Prom, May 25, in the Davenp Hotel Lobby.

On May 29 the Class of 1963 of No Central High School participated in c mencement exercises at the Spokane C seum.

Banquet Entertains Dads; Thanksgiving Con Presented

Striving to present activities to interest all the girls is the main objective of the Girls' League. The Dad-Daughter Banquet provided a chicken dinner and an evening of entertainment for girls and their fathers. Mothers attended a Mother-Daughter Tea during the Spring.

The Get-Acquainted Breakfast began the numerous activities for the Spring officers. New homeroom representatives met over a breakfast of pancakes and sausage.

WSU Presents Macbeth; Students Hurrying to Class

Typical of student life are activities presented on this page. The crowded halls during passing from class to class pose many traffic problems.

Cultural knowledge is gained through frequent presentations by neighboring colleges. Personal appearance is emphasized by teen talks, and poise is developed by student participation in talks and cons.

Crowded halls present quite a problem.

"Bertha," Steve Kellams, performs at the Boys' Con while Ken Bisbee, Gene Miller, Leroy Miller and Bruce Fyfe give approving glances.

President Kennedy at decisive moment of Cuban crisis.

Kennedy Signs Quarantine; Seattle Scene of Century 21

Century 21 brought many visitors to Seattle where they could look into the future and walk along the gateways of the world. Theme of the fair was "Man in the Space Age."

Because the Soviet military buildup in Cuba turned offensive, President John F. Kennedy was persuaded to sign the Selective Arms Quarantine on October 22, 1962. He announced the United States would turn back any ship carrying weapons of an offensive nature to Cuba.

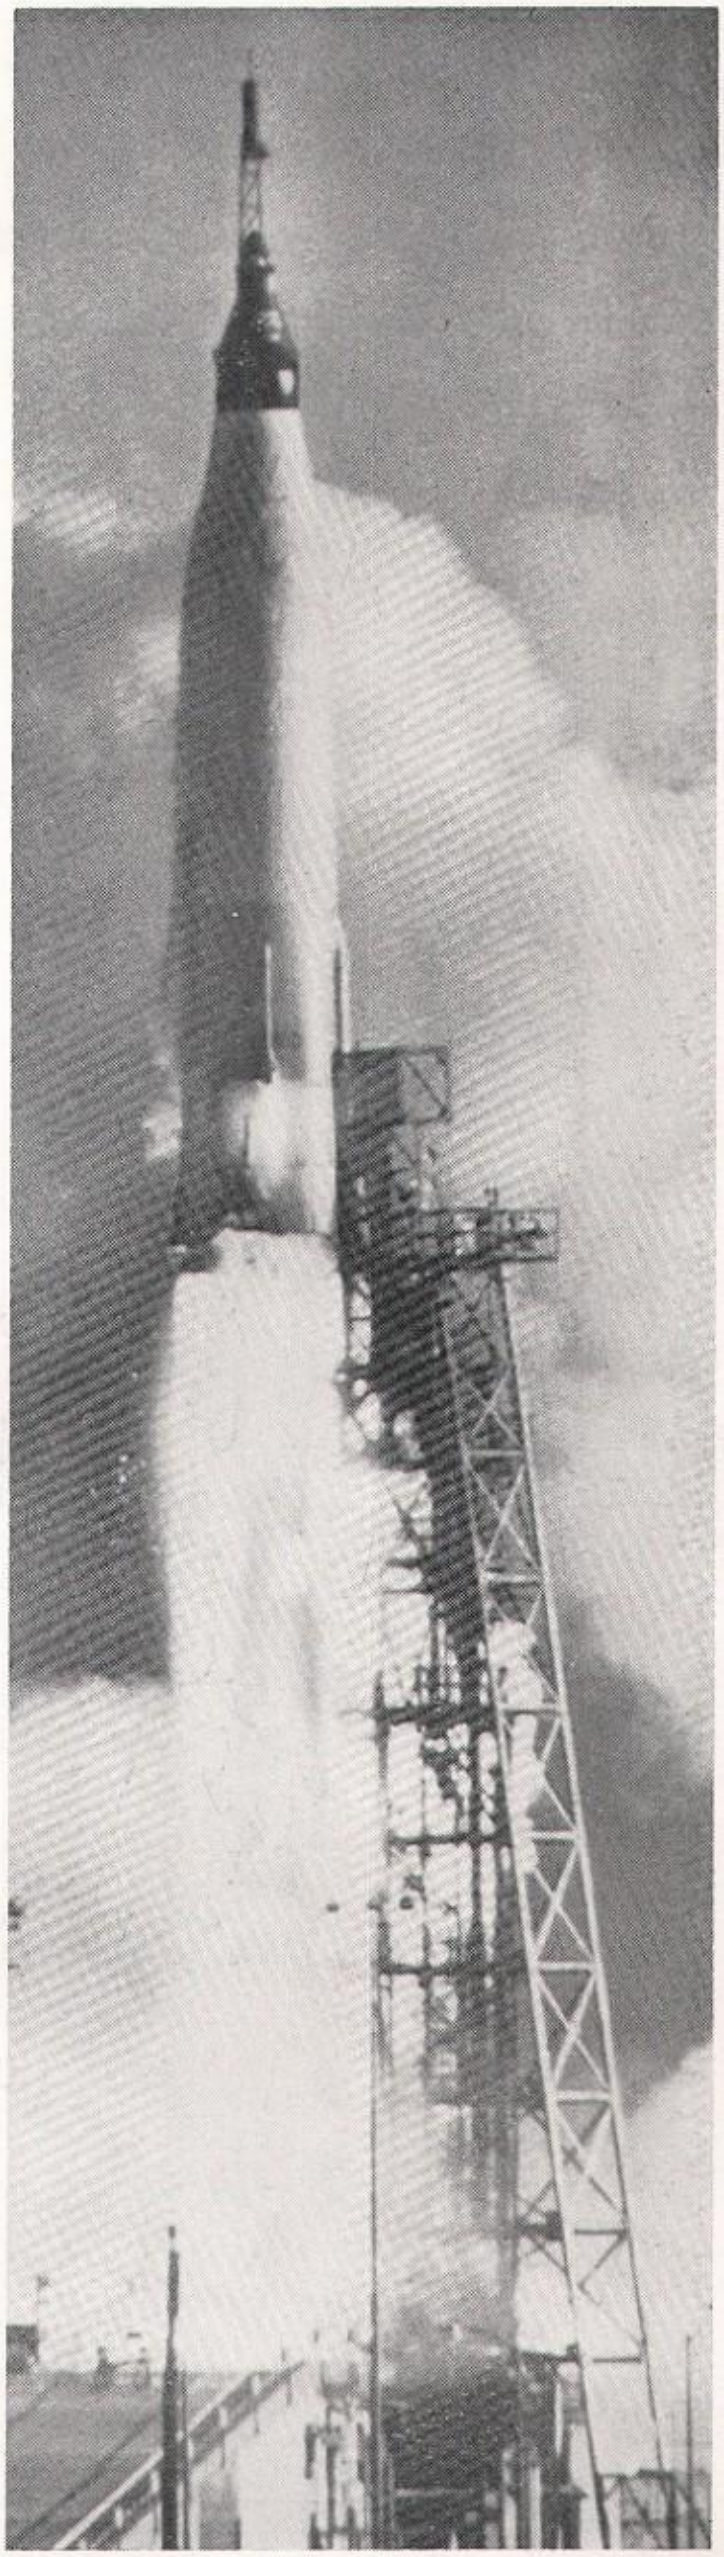
Atlas rocket takes off.



Atlas Rocket Soars Skyward Carrying Astronaut Schirra

Walter Schirra's six-orbit flight on October 3, 1962 brought a big advance in the U.S. space program. At Cape Canaveral, a camera recorded the launch of the big Atlas rocket, which thrust Schirra aloft. Ten minutes and thirty seconds after the launch when he was halfway across the Pacific, all automatic sequences were turned off leaving the rocket entirely in his hands. Nine hours later the flight terminated right on target, midway in the Pacific.

Schirra climbs in.

JUNIORS Bonnie Kringle, Secretary; Connie Kringle, Treasurer; Larry Bruya, President, and Craig Lee, Vice-President, have a happy, surprised look on their faces as they receive the news of being elected Junior Class Officers.

Juniors Enjoy Activities While Planning for Future

Although a junior is busy striving to achieve goals as a student and future leader, his year is full of enjoyable activity.

At the close of the first semester, the election of his class officers is uppermost in everyone's mind. The main activity for junior class officers is organizing the Junior Prom, one of the year's biggest high school social events.

The making of a vocational notebook is a major assignment of the junior in his English class. Learning to use a library to the best advantage, taking many notes and selecting reference material are all "musts." Students spend hours studying vocations of interest to them, and many times from these studies the student is able to decide on his lifetime work.

Sopomore Becomes a More Active Participant

Better acquainted with high school life, the sophomore takes more interest in serving on committees and joining those clubs which he feels will give him a more rounded academic life.

The sophomore has only two required subjects—English and biology. The former emphasizes oral preparation and much time is spent learning to express one's ideas with clarity and ease. Biology is the high school student's first taste of a true science. Via bug collections, foliage study, etc., he learns a deeper appreciation of the life which surrounds him. A fact which has influenced many a student to make a deep and life-long study of nature and her wonder.

After completing his sophomore year, considered by many authorities as the most difficult of the four years, the student looks forward to becoming an upperclassman.

Preparation for the future is considered when the sophomore chooses his classes. Many students choose to broaden their knowledge in mathematics by taking geometry. Most find this course geared to their level. With study, they can progress rapidly.

Other students, with plans of going into the commercial field, enroll in typing and bookkeeping. The opportunity to learn basic skills needed in the business world can be gained early with a background in these courses.

Sophomore girls are looking forward to the future role of homemaker. North Centarl offers two basic homemaking courses for these girls: Clothing and foods. In foods, teas are given for mothers and teachers. After this course the girls gain a feeling of confidence in planning meals and acting as hostesses.

Many Times Confusion Characterizes the Freshman

Frustrated expressions, confused wanderings, searching doors for room numbers, and walking into classes with frightened looks are all early characteristics of the freshmen.

"Learning" is the key word for the frosh year. Acquainting oneself with the school songs, regulations and traditions is a must. The "firsts" of a freshman aren't soon forgotten, the first pep con where he was completely baffled by the school spirit shown, and the first dance where he was a little shy but afterwards didn't ever want to miss a mixer. It doesn't take long for a freshman to feel a love for this new life and be a part of it.

To the freshman, the homeroom and homeroom teacher play a big part. The teacher helps them make new friends and get acquainted with the school. Proper consultation in the homeroom has boosted many a freshman's confidence and prepared him for enjoyment of high school life.

The high school routine of having six teachers for six classes is new to many frosh, and in the crowded cafeteria even trying to find a place to sit may be a new and bewildering experience.

Starting high school, the freshman is urged to participate in activities. They can be candidates for various freshman offices, and join many of the school clubs. Much of a student's later high school success can be traced to the all-important freshman year.

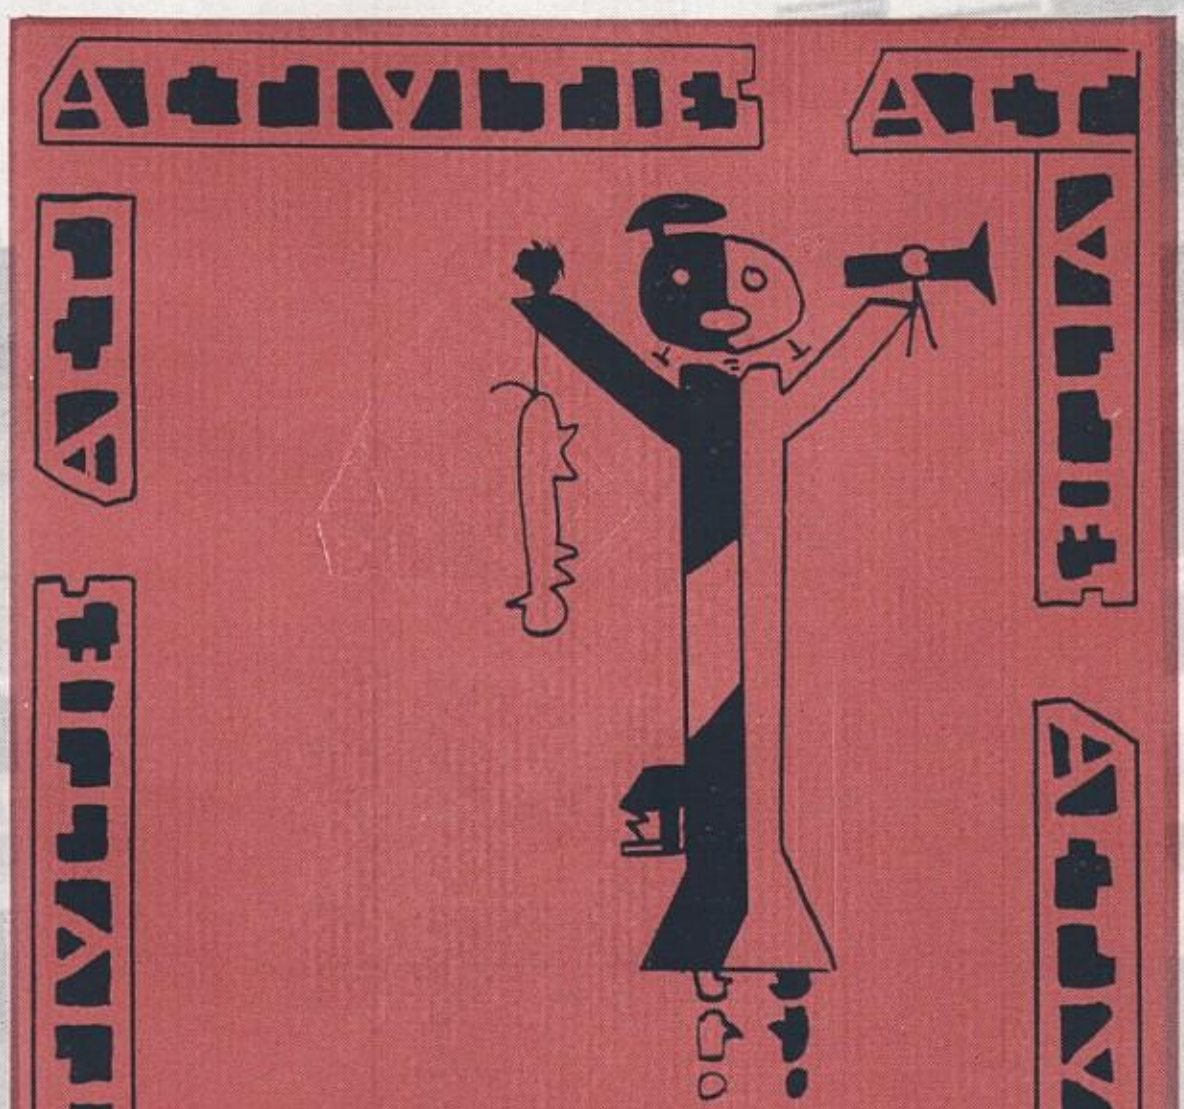
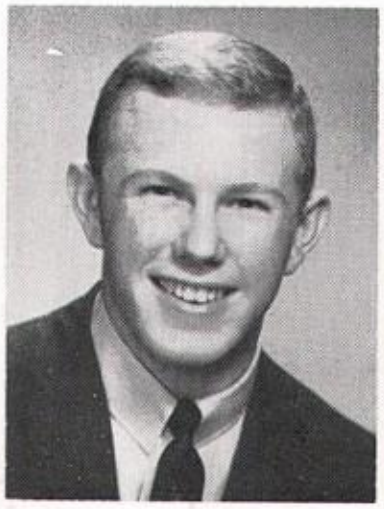
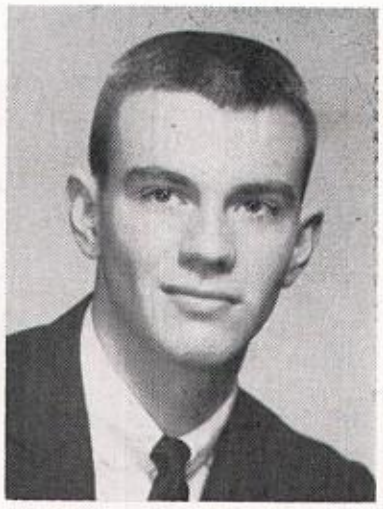
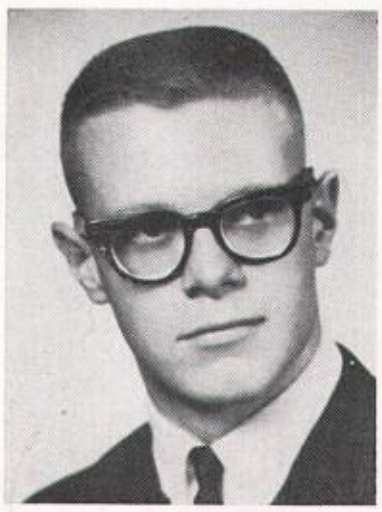
and it wasn't



Sand paintings were made by young men and women who had passed certain tests under the watchful eyes of the "shaman" or teacher. Our participants in school activities must also qualify to become members of our clubs and other organizations.







FALL OFFICERS—Jim Thompson, president; Steve Kellams, vice-president; Connie Kringle, secretary; Bonnie Kringle, treasurer; Bill Johnson, fifth executive.

ASB Constitution Revised

Revision of the ASB constitution was the most important project undertaken, according to Jim Thompson, fall ASB president. Another project of the ASB was the school club evaluation board, which was approved by the administration. Parliamentary procedure was improved in the House by the use of 100 "Mr. Chairman" pamphlets, ordered by the ASB from Washington State University.

The Get-Acquainted Mixer, September 7, started the ASB activities. Corecs for freshmen and sophomores one night and for juniors and seniors the other night were held October 1 and 2.

Penny Wright, North Central's safe-driving representative, displays the safe-driving banner earned by students through practicing safety skills in the city-wide driving competition.

Mixers, Corecs and Cons Held

SPRING OFFICERS—Mike Nienstedt, president; John Daniel, vice-president; Sheila Bayley, secretary; Sharon Chapman, treasurer, Duane Mizoguchi, fifth executive.

The school clubs earned money by operating booths at the ASB carnival, November 2.

December 10 and 11 were the dates of two more corecs. A punch party for graduates of the last few years was held. The annual Christmas convocation was December 21, and ending the fall activities was a mixer January 11.

Spring officers were installed January 24. A mixer was held February 1, after an early basketball game. March 11, freshmen and sophomores had a corec; March 12, juniors and seniors had theirs. "Moonlight and Roses" was the theme of the date dance, March 22. Music was provided by the G-Men of Gonzaga.

ASB advisers, Mr. Norman Erickson, Mr. Kenneth Mhyre and Mr. Dan Davis, take time out from their busy schedule to pose in the sunshine.

Senators Revise ASB Constitution

Fall senators were the ASB constitution committee, with Ken Thompson, senior senator, as the chairman of the committee. They revised the ASB constitution by shortening it and making it more readable. Each member took several sections of the constitution and rewrote them.

One girl and one boy from each class level make up the senate. They are elected each semester by their various classes and sworn into office at the ASB installations. The senate conducts meetings with the ASB officers.

ASB Pep and Dance Committees Make Plans for Year

North Central's Pep Committee held its meetings once a week to discuss convocation ideas. This year something entirely new was presented to the students—an all-boy convocation. A great deal of work went into planning the con, which proved to be a big success and very rewarding to those who had worked so hard for its cause.

The ASB Dance Committee planned only one date dance this year, "Moonlight and Roses," which was held March 22, in the school gymnasium. Planning the tickets, decorations and refreshments occupied a great deal of the committee members' time.

Publicity Committee and Honors Board Work to Improve NC

The ASB Publicity Committee works busily throughout the year advertising the events that are sponsored by the ASB. Signs posters and banners convey the numerous activities at North Central. Much time was spent by the committee members, but the students of North Central repaid the committee with sincere appreciation.

ASB Honors Board Committee members are selected by the officers. One boy and one girl are chosen from each class to work with the officers. Their committee deals with the more serious side of school life.

Elections and Finance Vital Part of ASB

Appointing a nominating committee was the first duty of the election committee. Then a schedule for primary and general elections was arranged and deadlines were set for the filing of petitions and the acceptance of nominations. Then the nominees were screened. The planning of the installation finished the committee's semester work.

A vital part of Associated Student Body work is the supervision of all the finances by the finance committee.

The committee along with the business manager of the school and an ASB adviser determines the budget for the ASB and reviews the books periodically to determine any changes that may be recommended as the association progresses through the semester.

ASB Scholarship Committee Keeps Up Bulletin Board

Highlighting the Fall semester activities of the ASB was the Carnival, a nonstanding committee. Sam Hubbard and Jeanie Curryer were cochairmen of the event in which each school club participated by supporting a booth. Proceeds were divided among the clubs.

Frantic Shouts Heard as Book Is Assembled

"What's next?" "Is there anything for me?" These sounds can be heard through the year as the Tamarack is slowly assembled by its staff. Everyone worked diligently through the school year and at all hours of the day.

The theme was the main item to be completed at the first of the year. This year, art editors Janis Willett and Kelly Davis did an excellent job on the art work under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Eddy.

Layouts and advertising were next on the list. Each section planned its own layouts and then the three editors, Kris Kurtz, Jeanie Curryer and George Nethercutt, transferred them into three small books known as "dummies." In this way, it was less confusing and everyone had his layouts in one place. While the editors were working on this, the rest of the staff was out getting ads to help finance the book. This was accomplished under the supervision of the advertising editor, Laura Clark.

The production section was concerned with copy for the school and senior plays. Gladys Neville was in charge of this section.

Selling the Tamaracks was started in late October. Each member of the staff was assigned two homerooms. The beginning journalism class and the News staff also helped to sell them. A convocation was presented to promote the sales. All sales were recorded and kept in ordr by Teri Easterwood, business manager, and junior Jeanette LaPlante.

Senior glossies were soon received and activity sheets were given to senior homerooms for students to fill out. Heading this section was Joan Othmer and assisting her were Patti Theodorson and Meg Stone. They were kept busy in pasting the glossies to huge panels to be sent to the engravers.

Homeroom section was under the supervision of editor Ruth Bonin. Mr. Art Lacy, a professional photographer, took the homeroom pictures.

Laurel Brown headed the faculty section. The Crescent studio took the pictures of the new teachers and those teachers who wished to have their pictures retaken.

Activities section was kept under control by Phyllis Neville. Also, school life was worked out by editor Patty Nance with the help of Sharon Pitts and Sally Mast.

Pictures Taken and Copy Written

Scheduling pictures and assisting the photographers was Velda Sleeth. The photographers this year were Bob Gausman, Bob Harn, Ron McRae, Dennis Kippenhan and Rick DeWitt.

Girls' sports section was put out by Sheila Bayley and the boys' sports section by Dave Hyslop. A few new ideas in the way of layouts were added to the boys' sports section.

Mrs. Newett did an excellent job of advising the staff.

All the engraving work was done by Parent Engraving company under the supervision of Mr. Spencer Green. After a picture was taken it was sent to be engraved and they sent back the proof. Then it was attached to the layout and sent to the printshop.

Staff Hurries to Meet Deadline

As the April 19 deadline approached everyone was busy trying to get everything to the printer. All the printing was done under the direction of Mr. Maynard Rikerd, head of the Technical and Vocational School printshop.

At the end of the year a banquet for the News and Tamarack staffs was held. The editors for the following year were announced and the completed book was shown for the first time.

Now the Tamarack is put to bed, the staff looks back over their work and long hours of writing copy. It was so worthwhile and rewarding to know they put out a book that will be cherished for years to come.

Pami Battan and Joe Rigg Hold Top Positions

Members of The News staff have a tremendous responsibility to get the paper to press on time. Amid the clicking of typewriters and the droning of voices, the staff editors busily plan page makeup, check cuts, read galley page proofs, and make last-minute corrections at the school printshop. All copy is due a week preceding its publication date. News stories are turned in on Thursday and feature stories are due on Wednesday of the week before the paper is issued.

For the past 27 years The News has been awarded highest honors by both the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the National Scholastic Press Association. Joseph Tremblay is publications adviser for The News and ad staffs. Plaques and certificates won by The News line the walls of the newsroom.

The week before Christmas they sponsored a potluck for all the FTA clubs in the city.

Names of the members are given to the teachers so that the students may correct papers and do other jobs for them.

Math Club is limited to 30 members who have had three semesters of math with at least a "B" average. A test is also given to the students who wish to become members.

Early in the second semester, Mr. Paul Gershon from IBM Corporation gave a speech and showed films on IBM computers.

The annual basketball game between the Math Club and the Latin Club ended in defeat for Latin Club. The winner of the game played Biology Club for the championship.

The main goal of the club is to provide mutual fellowship of students interested in the mathematics field.

B-Squad Football

The B-squad football team, coached by Dale Blair and William Lowther, completed its season with a one-win, five-loss, one-tie league record.

Sandy Cooprider's yardage, Jack Blair's passing, and Bill Nichols' conversions gave the Bee gridders their 21-12 victory over Central Valley. Hard luck marked a 0-0 deadlock with Rogers when a North Central 55-yard touchdown play was called back on a costly penalty.

Singled out for honors among the defensive linemen were Gary Ullrich, Jerry Miller and Dan LaBrie. Sandy Cooprider led the Indian Bees in scoring with 42 points. Bill Nichols followed with 24 points, including 9 of 11 extra-point attempts. Arch Stradley and Gail Keeling each made six points.

Frosh Football

North Central's freshman football team took second place in the City High School Freshman Football League. The frosh gridders, coached by William M. Diedrick, Blaine Bennett and Farrel Romig, finished the season with a four-win, one-loss, one-tie league record.

Starting the season with a victory over the Mead frosh Panthers, the Papooses lost only to city champion Gonzaga. A 7-7 tie in the second Gonzaga game and a final win over LC cinched the second-place title for the freshman Indians.

"The team played good ball all year," said Coach Diedrick. "We ended the season with almost the same number of boys that turned out the first of the year."

After being selected as Songleaders in the spring of their junior year, songleaders for football were Heidi Aldinger, Carol Allen, Marilyn Edmunds, Carol Perry, Velda Sleeth and Penny Wright. Sheila Bayley, fall chairman, led the group.

Red Feathers Are Active in Service Projects

Eighty girls with flashing white and red uniforms enthrall huge audiences with their marching and stunt participation.

This year the girls introduced an entirely new outfit for basketball. Replacing the white pants and tops are Indian dresses of white with red fringe. White knee socks and red shoes, also, the traditional red headbands and white gloves, complete their outfit.

This group not only cheers enthusiastically throughout the games—win or lose—but

A service project is required each semester for every girl. These include mony-raising projcts, tag sales, and other philanthropic endeavors.

Tryouts are under the direction of Mrs. Lucile Lill, department head. Selection as a Red Feather is determined by marching ability, grade-point average, and participation in physical education department activities.

Color Girls is an organized pep club consisting of freshmen and sophomores. They are easy to distinguish in their wine-colored sweaters and black, gored skirts.

These girls are selected twice a year and are chosen by Miss Charleda Foss, director of Color Girls. This group serves as a preparation for future Red Feathers. They also are required to take part in a service project each semester.

and Spirit to Sports Events

The girls are divided into two class periods according to their grade level. The Sophomores have a fourth-period class, while the Freshmen practice for stunts and marching in parades during fifth period. Both groups add a great deal of spirit and enthusiasm to all of the athletic events.

Requirements for the group include a 2.5 grade average, marching ability, and a good citizenship record. Once a member of Color Girls, each person must continue to meet the above requirements in order to stay in the group the next semester.

Busy planning the girls' physical education program are Miss Charleda Foss and Mrs. Lucile Lill, Department Head.

Promoting Sportsmanship Aim of PE Department

Mrs. Lucile Lill, department head, has her hands full not only with physical education classes, but she is also Red Feathers adviser. Teaching health, sportsmanship and physical fitness are only a few of her duties. Assisting her is Miss Charleda Foss. She, too, has the responsibility of teaching the set goals established by the department. Miss Foss is also the director of the Color Girls.

An important part of the physical education program this year has been giving Washington State Physical Fitness tests to all the classes. The tests were given twice, once in the fall and once in the spring. They included such exercises as pull-ups, jump-reach, agility run and many more. The girls enjoyed taking these tests as they can see how they compare in physical fitness on a nation-wide scale.

Color Guards Selected; Perform in Parades

Two girls are chosen at the end of their junior year to serve as Color Guards during their senior year. They are chosen according to their grade-point average, activity in physical education, and marching ability. Working hand in hand with the band, North Central's Color Guards add a great deal of color to stunts and parades.

Highlighting the year's activities for the Color Guards was a trip to Wenatchee for the Apple Blossom Festival. This was a fabulous trip, and the Color Guards performed excellently as this was the last event in their marching career at North Central. Leading the band through the streets of Wenatchee, they were cheered on by the large crowd of spectators that lined the streets.

Practicing for marching in the Lilac Parade are Color Guards Judy Kemp and Lyn Schneider.
